“ I first met Cat when I would go to Carabelle. I would always stop by to talk to her and buy a big burlap sack of oysters fr $18,if I shucked them. She told me that it was hard getting help to run the oyster House and she was thinking of retiring. I lived talking to her about the old days and how life used to be. I would get wrapped up with her stories which were so vivid that I could almost see what she was describing. When she told me about retiring k told her if she did Carrabelles charm would be diminished. I was so saddened to hear if her passing but was grateful to have met her. I will miss not seeing her but not her stories.
