“ I knew of Charles through Kim and my wife's friendship with both - but only really got to know Charles in the last year or so. What a loving and giving person! His offers of tools to use, insight on how to get something done, and his friendship and kindness were a reflection of a huge heart. I'm glad we got to be at his birthday dinner recently, spend some time together, and have him share his knowledge of fish and fishing! His knowledge was boundless - and the depth of caring and compassion even more so. I only wish I had gotten to know him better and had more time to spend together - I know I would've been the better for it.

“ Charles,
I was a grown man with a family of my own when you came into my life. You accepted me, my children, and Kathi like we were your own blood. I will always cherish the talks we had about whatever hot topic of the day was. You knew something about everything and that knowledge was appreciated. I thank you for coming into mom's life and the joy you brought to her everyday. Know you are loved by everyone who was blessed by your presence.
