“ You were an amazing friend to me. You taught me so much about how to have fun and not always see video games as a competition. You brought me laughs even when I was unhappy and you are and always will be a brother to me.

“ Growing up, David was one of my best friends. I had just moved to a new middle school the year of 7th grade. I didn't know anyone and I was nervous about making friends, but I've never had a friendship with anyone that was as easy as the one I had with David. Some of my earliest memories of David were of us playing the trumpet together in school, one of us always trying to one-up the other, in which he usually won:). After school we would walk home together and along the way there was a small hill that had a hole hidden by grass where one of us always fell, almost every day, even after we knew it was there. That was one of our running jokes we had, and we still laughed about it even years later. Even through all of this tragedy, that was the David I remember and for that I am thankful. I eventually moved away, and we lost contact as we both grew into our new adult lives. We found each other again years later after he moved to Tallahassee, only an hour away from me. The photo below is the from the last time I saw him and it is the david I will love and cherish forever, holding a little green frog he found. I know he is watching over all of us in heaven. Until we meet again <3 love, nichole
