“ First off, Papa I miss you more than anything. I have so many memories I could share that we had together, but I know the five that stick in my mind the most are first, when me and James got home from school everyday there was always candy on the table every single day. Second, "do you see them grapes?" is what he used to say to me every year when the Wisteria started to grow up in the trees. The third memory was when all of us were outside in the front yard, and he was riding James' bike and we all told him to tie his shoelaces so they didn't get caught in the peddles of the bike.. but of course you didn't listen.. and you fell off the bike.. I was both scared and amused to see that happen and I know I laughed my butt off. the fourth was him telling me everyday, "you better put your shoes on, those toe biters are going to get your toes." I can say that I never did put my shoes on but I always looked out for these 'toe-biters'. The last would have to be when he would be sitting at the table eating icing, and he would get me and James to go up there to him and he would give us a spoon full of what we thought was icing.. and maybe half the time it was icing... the rest of the time it was either mayo, sour cream, or cream cheese. I miss him so much and thinking of him still makes me burst into tears because it makes me think of all the bad things I did growing up, but then I just think of how he was a great, loving, compassionate man, and it brings a smile to my face and love into my heart and the greatest pleasure to say that he was an amazing grandfather and he was the best male figure in my life.

“ Please accept my condolences for your loss. There is no worse pain than losing a loved one to death, I also want to share with you the hope that we find in the following Bible verses. God promise in Isaiah 25:8 these comforting word, “He will swallow up death for ever, and certainly wipe the tears from all faces. The Bible also says that God will wipe away the tears from our eyes and death will be no more, neither mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore. The former things have passed away (Rev. 21:3, 4). What great joy to be able to live forever without the fear of losing our loved ones again. It shall be as he has promise, for God can not lie, Titus 1:2.
