“ Doug and his 150 pound grandfather, my dad, Tom Caufield, would sometimes put on a little show at a store by his grandfather accusing Doug of some ficticious offense. In response, Doug would respond with something like, "don't hit me grandpa, don't hit me"!! Of course given the size of Doug vs his grandfather, for people who had never seen "the show" before this came across as pretty ludicrous.

“ I will never forget when Doug first came in to my life. I was 6 years old and he was about 14 or 15 and already a very tall and big guy. At first he scared me from his size. Once he started talking to me, though, I found out what a sweet and goofy guy he was. He really was a gentle giant. I immediately fell in love and could hardly wait to see him each time I visited Dad and Judy. I always loved hanging out with Doug. He always made me feel loved.

“ OK, I think I am on a roll now ~ About Doug: My nickname for him was Sir Dudley Dooright! He loved to take things apart (like my brand new toaster) to see what made them work. Then, he could not put them back together again! I still loved him and he made me laugh. He loves being outdoors, fishing, and animals. I hope he see Wacky our dog in heaven. Love you Sir Dudley~ Mom

“ I loved being Doug's Mom and I thank God for entrusting him to me. He was a good, loving person who enjoyed the outdoors, fishing, and animals. He will be missed, but we are at peace because he is at peace after many hardships and struggles. He left behind many happy memories to sustain his family and we have many reasons to smile when remembering him. My nickname for him was Sir Dudley Dooright ~ he loved that cartoon when he was a little guy.

“ As my sister said, Doug had a heart of gold and never held back if someone needed help. Strange as this may sound, one of my favorite memories of my brother was the day he gave me a black eye...the only one I have ever had the pleasure of deserving. We were on the school bus on a very cold morning...I was flicking his cold ears, just to pester him. That day he finally took the step forward and stood up to his older brother. He calmly turned around and punched me right in the left eye...it was swollen shut in minutes. That was the day my little brother earned my full respect and I knew he would always stand up for himself and those he loved. My little brother grew up that day in ways that are hard to describe. We truly became FRIENDS and enjoyed each other to the end...I love and miss you Douglas Van Hunt...God knows I miss you so much already...Thank you Mom and Dad for giving Laurie and me the best brother in the world.
