

George E. Caspary

February 6, 1938 - December 21, 2011

George E. Caspary began his last journey to meet our Lord on December 21, 2011. He was born in Bolivia in 1938 and spent his childhood in Brazil. He is survived by his wife Nadiya and sons Jorge (Maria); Werner; Hans, M.D. (Kelley), and Alexander as well as grandchildren Jose, Andrea, Danielle, Claudia, Kayla, and Lily. He studied geological engineering and received a Masters in Geology from McGill University in Montreal, Canada. His profession as a petroleum geologist for Phillips Petroleum took him from the Amazon River to the Arctic to the sands of Africa and all places in between. He finished his career as an engineer for the Florida Department of Environmental Protection where he worked until his untimely death. He was fluent in several languages, an excellent petroleum geologist having worked in all five continents, as well as an avid reader and postage stamp collector. He was particularly proud of the academic and professional accomplishments of his four sons. To our Dad: a life well lived, mission accomplished, and we pledge to continue carrying the torch.

“ George will be sorely missed. He was a good neighbor and friend and a kind, soft spoken man. We could always count on George to have a funny story about his many experiences throughout the world. George was an intelligent man and good husband and father. We will always remember him raking his lawn and keeping his cars clean and tidy! It was an honor to have known him.
