“ I had the pleasure of meeting Greggie at my dear friend Freda’s house when I was visiting from North Carolina. Greggie had the ability to talk to you as though she knew you forever and make you feel at ease. She was a strong, intelligent woman who had many accomplishments in her life. Rest in peace Greggie. With heartfelt condolences, Melissa Howard

“ I fondly recall the many conversations that I had with Greggie. Our conversations were always insightful and fun. I will never forget how she welcomed me when I first met her in Atlanta before Mark’s wedding. And I will always fondly remember her warm welcome when I visited for Thanksgiving.

Greggie is a legend and legends live on forever. Eternally grateful for the chance to know Greggie. My condolences to the family. Always remember the good times.

“ My mother Greggie McCallister Hull was a spirited, dynamic, dedicated, and fearless woman. Her personality was direct, to the point, and she had such a knack for quick responses. I always admired her quick wit.

However, she was extremely sensitive, with a big heart even though she never liked to show it. She thought if she showed it, it made her vulnerable. Remember this was the time of a woman being head of household, not so popular in the 60s, 70s, and 80s... But when she did show it, you were captivated by the energy of her words. It was beautiful, you felt grateful like you could accomplish anything at that moment.

I am the last child of the Hull family, so I had a front-row seat with seeing my siblings grow up, but it also meant because of the age difference between us I got to be with Greggie (Mom) the longest.

There are so many memories such as listening to stories of her childhood, that was the most fun. What a life she led, so many twists and turns, an amazing life.

Her last words between her and I was Sunday, January 2, 2022, when we talked on the phone. She said, “I love you, always, always” and I said, “I too, always.” And because she was like a second parent to my son, Ryan in his very early childhood years she also said, make sure Ryan knows too. I love him and I am proud of him.

I will always be grateful and remember fondly that private moment.
