“Max was our wonderful friend and neighbor for many years. He was my buddy. We both had military training and shared a life of discipline to do our best and on time. He was a wonderful man, a true gentleman, and the very best kind of neighbor. We both loved vegetable gardening and shared plants, gardening tips, etc. Occasionally my family traveled during the peak of gardening season and Max always generously volunteered to care for our garden during our absence.

Max was a proud Navy man and cherished his service to this country. He often talked about his travel experiences during his Navy career.

Over the last several months, Max was very ill and losing weight but he never complained. Although he was becoming physically weak, he stayed stoic and mentally strong till the end. We admired him so much.

We will miss our dear friend.

“Max, a friend, a shipmate who will never be forgotten. We served together at two different duty stations. Our lives were entwined with family and friends and as brothers in and out of uniform. Max was a dedicated sailor and proud of who he was. We spent countless hours together, traveling back and forth to Las Vegas for many years. Joyce and Rainy had to listen to our sea stories so much they could repeat every word without a laugh thinking what's so funny. A true Texan, a devoted Dallas Cowboy who just happened to team up with a small Yankee Patriot fan. He may be gone but will never be forgotten. I am sure, his first stop after Robert Lee. Texas will be to ask Rainy to put some coffee on. May you have smooth seas and following winds my friend.

Max was and always will be my best friend and shipmate, he was full of life and we had many adventures together while we were aboard the USS Samson and when later assigned to Corry Station in Pensacola, FL. Max, I will miss you here on Earth but rejoice in the knowledge that we will see each other in Heaven. Fair winds and following seas my friend..
