“ John was an extremely caring boss. He was just a down to earth, good guy. As I have been reflecting on the past almost 13 years working for and with him, I've put into words some of those qualities, which I strive to embody in my own life.

He cared for his employees as people and had such compassion, it was sometimes over utilized. To stand here and list the most memorable acts of altruism could go on all day.

He knows so many people, sociable and engaging. I could ask him for a contact in any field and he always had someone to recommend. "How do you know so many people?" I came to learn quickly John was involved in community. From boy scouts, rotary, exchange to Bible study, church, college of music. When I was helping him re-sync his phone to computer calendar, I didn't know it could take that long.

And on a daily basis, I admire his sense of humor. He was always quick with a dad joke and to share random funny comments on his mind. He always came in with a smile and "good morning."

John led by example with integrity, zest for life, and love.

I will miss you John- my boss, mentor and friend.
