“ My friend Kip was a craftsman who shared his expertise and who was always helpful when I needed his help, both in work and in my personal life. I will remember my good friend when I feel discouraged. We shared fishing times and deer sausage memories I hold dear.

My thoughts and condolences go to you, Josie, along with my prayer you find peace in knowing Kip touched everyone in a good and wonderful way.

“ Kip

The hardest part of friendship is having to say good bye. May you rest in peace knowing that your wife Josie was so much happier because you were in her life. I hope eternity is everything you want it to be and that you are fishing with Henry. Love Desiree and family.
