“ I remember watching Margaret come down the aisle as Emily's honorary flower lady. She was so delighted, and the moment was absolutely priceless. This moment was representational of the incredible relationship they shared. Emily found ways to reach her in her illness, and to waken her to moments in life that she was so much a part of. As she came down the aisle she was wide eyed, taking in the moment, and blossoming before each person in the church. The family nurtured her throughout her life and lovingly gave her to Gods care when she was called home. God bless,
