“ I worked with Patrick, although not directly, and didn’t know him well. But there are three things I learned about him within the last couple of years...and those three things have been common themes in recent conversations and even at Patrick’s celebration of life service. 1) Roses for all of his female coworkers on Valentine’s Day. 2) His love of music and occasional guitar playing at his desk. And 3) That giant, goofy, fuzzy, orange monster helmet!

I used to get a ride to work from relatives or sometimes a friend. Once in a while, we’d see this monster helmet cruising along Capital Circle and we’d all get a real kick out of it. One day I got to work, exited the elevator, entered the double doors into the office and immediately spotted that silly helmet sitting right on Patrick’s desk. This was news! And I’m pretty certain the first thing I did when I got to my desk was send an email letting everyone know that the crazy helmet works with me! Good fun.

Rest in Peace, Patrick

“ Patrick was one amazing soul. Now that he is on the other side I am sure he is doing even BIGGER Pirate work there. We shared many special meals over the years with the incorporation of deep profound words and lots of laughter. I will forever hold a special place in my heart for an amazing soul brother.

Rest in Peace Dear Patrick!!

“ Sometimes there simply are no words.

The humor has touched a wellspring of happiness so deep that there are no words. The honesty has unlocked and freed a secret hidden so deep there are no words. The encouragement has tapped into and overcome a shame so powerful there are no words. The hope has stomped out a fear and in that freedom there are no words.

Thank you, my brother and my friend, for speechless moments these past seven years.

“ I want to let Tammy and her entire family, Patricks family and fiance know how much I am grieving in the loss of Patrick. He was truly a one of a kind Christian brother and friend. He was part of a men's accountability group in the 1990s and early 2000s at Thomasville Road Baptist Church. I have not seen him in some time but knew he was doing the Lord's work wherever he was. He was a great listener and was so transparent with his own challenges and family issues. He admitted when he was wrong and listened carefully to my admissions of the same in my life. He was a brilliant computer programmer and trouble shooter who bravely faced challenges regarding jobs over the years. He always used what he learned regarding life experiences, counseling and overcoming addictions to help others. I truly loved him as a Christian brother and know where he is now. He really made a difference in my life and I hope he did so for many others. I am praying for all those affected by his untimely passing. God knows Patrick is now joyfully in His presence.

“ Patrick had such zest for life! He had a knack for deeply respecting, listening and responding to people. He was a person with deep convictions who lived them. He was not afraid or ashamed to share his vulnerabilities I am so sorry for our community, his family, Michelle, and those of in recovery who were so inspired by him. What he taught me will not be forgotten.

“ We lost a “hero” and a very “noble friend”, with the only solace being.... he was doing what he loved, with who he loved, and make no mistake about it..... he loved and lived.... fiercely!!

One of my favorite quotes that he loved was by Joseph Campbell....
“Suddenly you’re ripped into being alive. And life is pain and life is suffering and life is horror, but my god you’re alive and it’s.....
SPECTACULAR”!!

It got me on the inside every time he said it and not just because of the words or the way he said it, but because you could feel his Truth in it!! I am not sure that I have ever met someone so alive as he and I know the light he brought will never burn out in my mind and heart!!

To me he was a hero, a friend, a light, an inspiration, and a motivation..... he not only made me want to be more alive.... he also made me want to be a better person and that just may be.... the most important and the most powerful gift a person can ever give!!! Patrick tried to make the world smile and by so doing..... he etched a place in many of our hearts. In mine the mark runs deep and I will be forever grateful that our paths crossed!!!

The thought I will take with me today is.... through us.... his light will never have to fade!!

God speed my Noble Friend.... you are love and you most definitely are loved!!!

“A hero is someone who has given his or her life to something bigger than oneself.”

Joseph Campbell

“...I have known Patrick for only a short couple of years. During that time he helped to heal my grieving heart and he helped me in my recovery. He would always listen to me, console me, encourage me...and more often than not, would get me to smile or laugh...something I thought I would never do again. He touched my heart deeply. I know he is in Heaven with my son and I can hear them roaring with laughter as Patrick runs around as the only Angel in Heaven to wear an Animal helmet. I feel so blessed to have been able to share a friendship with this most delightful man...a man who lived life to the fullest and then some...the picture I posted so reminds me of Patrick...he was a man who cherished his friends, his life, his fiance and his family, especially his 3 beautiful daughters. Be at peace my friend...I send you love and hugs and a smile. I will never forget you...

“Patrick was one of a kind. One of those Rare beings that you don't come across often in life. We met early in his recovery and became fast friends. That friendship was very special and I will miss him tremendously. Patrick came to Panama City Beach to visit me for a Pirate Festival one year. He is the only man I have ever known comfortable enough in his masculinity to paint his toenails pink for his precious Gracie. I love ya and miss ya my friend.

Tammei Thompson - June 06, 2018 at 06:18 PM

I always looked forward to Patricks daily jokes, deep thoughts and kind words. He was a man above men whose heart, soul and compassion for those who knew him was never in question. He willl be missed. Fly high and may you steer your pirates vessel on the sea of clouds.

“ Every year on Valentines Day Patrick would give a rose to all the female employees he worked with. He always thought of others. He spoke often of his love for his family and Michelle. He was positive and encouraged others. I will even miss his terrible jokes. Thank you Patrick for touching my life.

“ My heartfelt condolences to all of Patrick's friends and family. Patrick and I met when we were coworkers back in 2002-2003. We stayed in touch periodically all these years and tried to visit with each other when our travels took us in the vicinity. We always had lots of laughs and great times! I'll miss you, Patrick, my good friend. We crossed paths and bonded and I'm grateful to have known you. Cheers! Until we meet again...

“ Patrick was a rare, compassionate and inspirational individual. For example, we had a beautiful Rottweiler named Raven who pretty much hated men. She only liked my husband, Greg. This proved to be a potential problem when Patrick began renting our pool house and had to pass through Raven's yard to get to his home. After only a few days, Patrick literally had that dog eating out of the palm of his hand! We are pretty sure Raven's weight gain was fully due to Patrick's spoiling her rotten with bacon. Patrick bonded with Raven and when it was time for us to put her to sleep when she had bone cancer, it was Patrick and his sweet daughter Grace who came out and stood by our side and supported our family as we said our final goodbye to a loyal fur-baby. THAT was the type of man Patrick Salmon was... ALWAYS there for those lucky enough to call him a friend. We were blessed to have him touch our lives and this was only one of the many, many "Patrick stories" I could share. God bless and comfort the family and friends he left behind.
