“ My best friend, taught me to dance, to cook corn bread (which I to this day can get it right, not even Jiffy mix). I miss her so much my heart aches as if it happened today. The ONLY person on earth that totally got me and shared truth. We were connected by spirit and circumstances we both witnessed abuse from our blood family members. Even thou we loved them so much, they continually judged us both, me still to this day. She had LOVE for each one of her brothers and sisters continually wanting their love not approval, just unconditionally LOVE. Her heart was full of love for them, even thou never returned. My best friend in the whole wide world, she always gave nick names, but not me always called me by my given name never nick name but full name. She truly loved unconditionally and I did her and still do. I adore the way her family constantly only looked at her sexual preferences not knowing a damn thing truly about her. I stand for her today and the true hearted person she was, that some will NEVER be or even come close to. I know when our JESUS comes it will be brought to light. Trixie Kaye I'll see you in heaven as we promised each other in the early hours this day years ago. My heart misses you, as no other on this planet gets me like you. Love you!

“ Hi, This is Fatal. Trixie named me that years ago when we were playing pool at the Dog Bar- cannot remember the name. I almost hit her in the head and she was like- be careful Fatal. Well, it stuck and I was Fatal for many years in Tally until she finally called me Lisa. Guess we had grown up a little. She was great at pool. Last night, I had a dream of her and of all things, we were fishing. Yep, we fished together - brim popping- sometimes with a brother of hers. We spent time at the family camp and went knee boarding (I almost got snagged up by a gator.) We drank beer and we laughed with her brothers that night by the campfire. One time, we were at the family home and I don't remember who's horses were in the backyard, maybe Amy's. Well, I got on it bareback and promptly fell off the back. Trix also dared me to bite off the head of a brim after, I think it was Noel, had gone fishing. Well, I did it and she gave me twenty bucks for doing so. I remember hanging out at Gilbert's house with his wife and kids when they were young and the big moccasin in the ditch in between the houses that Robert shot. Gosh, I have so many other memories. Oh, and the hunting dogs out back, lol. We were two of the prettiest girls in Tally if I say so myself. She always had my back and I always had hers. I visited with Martha and Trixie in Tampa and they visited me in Jax. Best friend I ever had.

“ Aunt Trixie was always the most fun Aunt and would take us to the beach to work on our tans. She taught us how to dance before We really even knew how important that was as a teen. She was always laughing. Such a strong person and will be missed . Taken too soon.
